

Rep. Jayapal Joins Seattle March For our Lives to Speak Out Against Gun Violence

A conversation about the state of our anti-gun violence movement and the tools available to end this crisis.

WHAT: On Saturday, March 17, Congresswoman Jayapal and students of the Seattle March For Our Lives will host a town hall to discuss the movement for anti-gun violence action in D.C. At the town hall, attendees are encouraged to make their voice heard on this public health crisis, as a build up to the youth-led national day of action on March 24th.

WHEN: March 17th, 2018 11:00 am-12:30 pm

WHERE: Quincy Jones Auditorium, Garfield High School, 400 23rd Ave, Seattle, WA 98122

BACKGROUND: Gun violence has traumatized our communities for far too long. As we mourn the loss of lives from Parkland, Florida to our very own state of Washington, we are tired of sending prayers and thoughts. Youth across the country are leading the call to address gun violence on all levels, particularly as it affects young people and our most marginalized communities. Our conversation will serve as a lead up to the Seattle March For Our Lives on March 24th, as part of a national day of action to end gun violence.

PARTICIPANTS: Congresswoman Jayapal and the student organizers of the Seattle March for Our Lives.
